

- Overview and History:
 - Official Name: University of Health Sciences (UHS)
 - Location: Phnom Penh, Cambodia
 - UHS is a public university specializing in health sciences education and training. It is the primary institution for medical and health-related studies in the country.
- Academic Programs:
 - UHS primarily offers programs in the health sciences, including:
 - Medicine
 - Dentistry
 - Pharmacy
 - Nursing
 - Midwifery
 - Public Health
 - Other allied health professions
 - For the specific names of degrees (e.g., Bachelor of Medicine, Doctor of Dental Surgery), refer to the UHS website.
- Admission Requirements:
 - Admission to UHS programs is generally competitive, with specific requirements that may include:
 - Completion of upper secondary education (high school) with a strong foundation in science subjects (e.g., biology, chemistry, physics)
 - Entrance examinations that assess aptitude for health sciences
 - Specific grade requirements or minimum scores in relevant subjects
 - Interviews may be part of the selection process for some programs.
 - It is essential to check the UHS website or contact their admissions office for the precise and most current admission criteria for each program.
- Tuition and Fees:
 - Tuition fees at UHS may vary depending on the specific program of study and the student's status.
 - Information on tuition fees, application fees, and other expenses should be available on the official UHS website.
 - Inquire about potential scholarships or financial aid opportunities through UHS's student services or financial aid department.
- Research and Innovation:
 - UHS is involved in research activities related to health sciences.
 - Information on research areas, projects, and publications can be found on the UHS website, particularly within relevant faculty or department sections.
- Student Life:
 - UHS provides facilities and services to support its students, such as:
 - Laboratories for various health science disciplines
 - Libraries with medical and health science resources
 - Clinical training facilities (hospitals, clinics)
 - Student support services
 - Check the UHS website for details on student organizations, activities, and any available accommodation or other student resources.
- International Relations:

- UHS may have collaborations with international universities or health organizations.
- Information on international collaborations, exchange programs, or other international activities should be available on the UHS website.

Where to Find More Precise UHS Information:

- Official UHS Website: This is the primary source. Look for sections like:
 - "Academics" or "Faculties"
 - "Admissions"
 - "Research"
 - "About UHS"